

ALLFLOWERS

The return of the fiery sweetness of 90s rock.

“All flowers in time bend towards the sun.”

By choosing the title of this obscure song by Jeff Buckley and Liz Fraser of the Cocteau Twins as their band name, Lara (vocals) and Olivier (guitar) laid the foundations of their universe marked by the 90s spleen.

For Lara, writing is a way to share this feeling of bewilderment and loss of meaning that an entire generation is facing.

Her soft voice is carried by Olivier's ardent arrangements and guitars, which take the duo towards horizons evoking the golden age of UK and US Alternative Rock, from the Cranberries to the Pixies, thus bridging the gap between the anxieties of our time and the existential questions of the turn of the Grunge years.

They are joined on stage by Félix (guitar) Paul-Aîmé (bass), Magali (cello) and Hugo (drums) for electric concerts that are on edge. The group will play their first album, as well as tracks from the upcoming album, still in a vein that made MTV's heyday.

A self-produced first album which was very well received!

"An anthological album, which only asks to shine, [...] cult before its time, and predestined for a very bright future."

RSTLSS - 11/8/2022

"I literally fell in love with the singer's voice, it's just magnificent! [...] A real gem!"

Stone Rock Radio - 12/24/2022

"More Or Less Forever is graceful, and brilliantly revisits classics from the last century."

AlbumRock - 10/22/2022

Winner of Contre-victoires de la Musique 2022

"They present an outstanding individual and modern sound with unmistakable nods to alternative's past (Siouxsie, The Cure, Lush and everything delightfully alt)."

An original Christmas song, in the pure
English tradition.

Winter Letter

12/20/2023

"A song to listen to by the fire, a steaming cup of coffee in your hands."

AlbumRock - 12/20/2023

*"Feelings [...] of weightlessness, as light
as a letter that we could imagine flying,
helped by the breath of our wishes, to orient ourselves towards the box of the one who will read it... And who will accompany us to spend this Christmas celebration in the most beautiful way possible."*
